Editor's Letter

By the time you read this, I will be on my holidays, once again, in the Kingdom of Fife, where I love exploring the Tentsmuir Forest, a wild and brooding wilderness, just north of St Andrews. Such is its reputation that a slightly rickety and weathered, old warning sign is displayed as you enter along one of the paths: 'Here be trolls, witches and other monsters.' The sign continues to give further gruesome details about these creatures, which, quite frankly, isn't terribly encouraging to the average tourist! Being a person of vivid imagination, it doesn't take long before I can actually envisage those creatures lying in wait for me in the dark depths. However, I have my trusty guard dog, Mack, at my side and follow the paths, looking suspiciously all around as I proceed. Eventually, I enjoy a lovely peaceful walk under the forest canopy with the odd shower of pine cones. St Andrews is a fine city and one that I love. It has culture, history, good restaurants and a spirituality that is almost tangible. And, of course, golf! In September the students arrive from all over the globe, after their long holidays, and the town is vibrant and buzzing with energy. They can be seen dipping in the waves of the cold North Sea and playing volleyball on the beach. Mack is a great ice-breaker and, after apologising for the burst ball, we often stop to chat to them. Sometimes they have settled really easily in their newly adopted home, sometimes they miss their families and homes badly, especially if they have left a family dog behind and Mack reminds them of their own so far away. Let us keep all new students in our thoughts and prayers. They are our hope for the future.

Enjoy the fruits of the autumn,
Colette.

Dear Friends,

As I sit to write this letter for the Autumn edition of the Focus magazine, it is the end of July, but it certainly has felt autumnal over these last few days, with the wind and the rain! Where has the sunshine gone? Hopefully we will experience some better weather yet before the Autumn is properly with us.

September is the start of the new academic year. For children and young people, a time of change and transition. Whether starting school for the first time as some are from our Friday Toddler Group, moving class and being with a new teacher, or moving up to high school or college, or even university. It's a time of change and adjustment. It is at the same time an opportunity to meet new people, make new friends and gain new knowledge and skills. Please remember all our young people in the village and beyond in your prayers.

“All good gifts around us are sent from heaven above”. Do you recognise these words? They are from the Harvest hymn, ‘We plough the fields and scatter’. Our Harvest Thanksgiving Service this year will be on Sunday 8th October. It is an opportunity to indeed thank God for his provision for us. It's lovely to see the different crops growing in the fields on the way into the village. I never cease to be amazed by what grows from a tiny seed: putting down roots and growing shoots. Not unlike starting a new year at school really, settling in and becoming established and growing in every way.

Jesus told his disciples that if they had faith the size of a mustard seed, then nothing would be impossible for them. That's a good thought to take with you into the new academic year.

I don't know if you have seen our notice board recently, but we have a new poster which says, “Small Church- Big Welcome”. And that is true. Everyone is very welcome here at St. Stephen's. It would be lovely to see you at any of our services.

God Bless,

Keith

CARRY ON CAMPING

by Beth Cresswell

I have been going on camping holidays for all my married life – and even before that with the Guides. I met my husband, Chris, who was a keen Scout and Scouter and went with him to the Lakes and the Brecon Beacons and slept in a tent. We canoed, cooked over open fires and enjoyed camp fire sing songs. Ask Colin Goodyear what it was like with 40 Hightown teenagers on the Llyn Peninsular in a field filled with an odd assortment of tents, one cold tap and one toilet. The experiences have given many people a fund of memories. Our editor, Colette, will well remember the Duke of Edinburgh camps in the Lakes.

When our son, Douglas, arrived, he had his first camping trip to Wasdale at the tender age of 3 months. He slept in a carry cot on wheels in a frame tent and could be wheeled away when he cried in the night. Since then, most years, we have been away with a tent. Chris and Douglas often went backpacking in the Lakes, the Peak District and once braved crossing the Channel, carrying all they needed in a rucksack apiece.

To be out in the fresh air is a delight as long as it does not rain too much and the nights do not get too cold. My sister-in-law and her family are ardent campers and we have spent many family gatherings on a site with 4 or 5 tents, a group of adults and cousins enjoying the freedom of the camping life. The whole Cresswell clan met up for a 70th birthday – the place immaterial, the gathering the most important.

My sister-in-law and her husband have a trailer tent which is easy to erect. We have gone from an ancient canvas one, via various poled and frame models to our present one which may be thought too big but it suits us. It does not have poles but tubes which are inflated using a pump powered by the car battery. In about 20 minutes our palace has risen from the grass and we can begin installing the bits and pieces that make it a home from home. 2 camp beds, mattresses, sheets and duvets furnish the bedroom. The kitchen is set up, as is the dining table and chairs. Last but certainly not least the electrics are plugged in. Now we have light, a cooker, a fridge and, best of all, a kettle. How we look forward to that cup of tea when all is finished.

It may be astonishing to many of you that we still enjoy this holiday once a year but it is worth the effort. There is an upside to this. I get to stay in good hotels en-route ,there and back, and we do have other sorts of holidays. We even contemplated a cruise to the north of Scotland but COVID scuppered that.

I don't know how long these camping trips will continue but, with a bit of luck, there are a few years left in us and our VANGO TAIGA 600.

Wills and Powers of Attorney are powerful legal documents. The skill in preparing the right document for your circumstances comes from knowing to ask the right questions coupled with the experience and expertise to draft it correctly; and thereafter ensuring that the formalities of finalising the document are properly adhered to. If you cut corners there is a risk that your loved ones will only discover the problems when it is too late - causing them stress, heartache and unnecessary financial loss.

Don't leave it to chance.

Make sure you only use an individual who personally is:

- a qualified professional
- a dedicated specialist
- highly experienced
- formally regulated by a recognised legal body
- insured as per regulatory requirements
- accredited member of Solicitors for the Elderly and STEP

Elizabeth Foggin TEP, Solicitor at Autumn Years Law is your local expert in:

- Wills & Trusts
- Court of Protection/ Deputyship
- Lifetime & Inheritance Tax Planning
- Lasting Powers of Attorney
- Probate & Estate Administration
- Elderly client services

Our friendly approach is both compassionate yet professional and as a company we are committed to providing you with high quality legal advice. Free home/hospital visits are available if you have physical difficulties in being able to come to us.
